STAUNTON TAKES A DEFEAT.

Roanokes Go a Notch Higher for Fourth Place.

It Was a Closely Contested Game from the Start, but Good Playing and Opportune Batting of the Home Team Won-Staunton Only Scored in the Second Inning, but They Came Near It Several Times.

Roanoke gave Staunton a valuable lesson in the art of ball playing yesterday afternoon. And incidentally they won a game which places them still nearer to the coveted fourth place.

It was an exciting game and the 400 rooters present did not breath easy until Lemon went out in the ninth, leaving Fultz on third base. It was also a hard game for Staunton to lose as they outbatted the home team two to one and made but one more error.

to one and made but one more error. Roanoke won because they bunched their hits and played championship ball in the field.

Meade, Cavanaugh, Frech and Crockett carried off the fielding honors for the home team. The former made a wonderful throw from right field to third base, retiring Lemon, and Cavanaugh accepted seven chances without an error. Some of them were difficult ones, too. Davy Crockett covered first base as only Davy can. In the fifth inning he saved O'Hagan an orror by jumping up into the air and pulling down an apparently wild throw, retiring Ransom.

Daniel started in to catch, but he was struck on the leg by a foul tip before the first man had been retired, and was compelled to leave the game. Vestercay was Meade's first appearance this season, and he showed that he still can play first-class ball.

Roanoke varied the usual rule and went first to the bat. After O'Hagan had been retired Royd reached first on four bad balls. He went to third on McHooveter's single and scored on Crockett's long fly to Sherer.

Another run was added to the home team's total in the third. Boyd again reached first on balls. McHooveter flew out to Clark and Crockett forced Boyd at second. The latter stole a base and scored on hits by Cavanaugh and Meade. The latter's lacked within a foot of going over the left field fence.

Roanoke made the last tallies of the game in the fifth. Crockett was hit by a pitched ball. McHooveter flew out to Sherer. Meade knocked a grounder to Clark, which he threw poorly to first, and the runner was safe, Crockett going to third. Meade stole second and both men scored on Frech's two-bagger. Demoss followed with a single, but O'Hagan retired the side with a grounder O'Hagan retired the side with a grounder Staunton's only runs were made in the second. Wilson, the first man up, was given his base on balls. Sullivan sent a grounder to Demoss, which the latter let get by him. The ball rolled out to Maginnis, who fumbled it, and Wilson went to third. Sullivan was forced at second by Sherer's grounder, but Wilson scored. Hits by Clark and Ransom sent Sherer across the plate. Staunton failed to score again, although she had men on bases in several innings. Sharp fielding on the part of Roano's prevented any more run-getting.

MEETING OF THE LEAGUE.

Considerable Business of Importance Brought Up.

Although the attendance upon the meeting of the Young Men's Business League held at Hotel Lee last night was not large, some important business was transacted and matters of much interest to the future welfare of the city received consideration. The meeting was presided over by President Ed. L. Stone, who, previous to the meeting of the league, called the members of the board of directors 'ogether for work which could not be performed at 4:30 o'clock on account of a lack of a quorum.

The directors received several reports from the chairmen of the standing committees, which were afterwards re-committees, which were afterwards referred to the league. The applications of eleven new members were also favorably received.

At the meeting of the league the committee on industries reported that it had been in consultation with a man who proposed to establish an organ factory here provided sufficient funds could be secured. As the business ability and the demands of the promoter of this scheme did not make a favorable impression upon the committee, it was recommended that nothing be done in regard to the matter, which action was sustained by the league.

The committee also reported that it was in communication with parties relative to establishing a glove factory here, and the information was received that a manufacturer of Winchester, Va., had previously considered locating in Roanoke, and some inducements might be made to secure such an establishment.

The membership committee reported upward of sixty persons on the roll of the league, and that application blanks were being printed and would be used by all the members in securing additions.

An interesting point came up in the report of Thomas W. Miller who had been requested to urge the necessity of prompt action on the construction of the new public building for Roanoke. Mr. Miller, who is the supervising agent of the Government in the work of construction, was in Washington recently and had seen the supervising architect in regard to the progress of the work. From him he learned that the elevation plans had been completed and that the entire drawing and necessary specifica. entire drawing and necessary specifica-tion would be completed this month so that advertisements for bids might be received early in August.

The plans, Mr. Milier said in his report, had been so drawn as to provide for a brick building with stone trimmings. At his suggestion, however, the architect had concluded to make plans for a stone edifice, receiving the assurance from Mr. Miller that quarries of an excellent quality were near to Roanoke, and that it was probable that bids for the construction of the building of stone could be made within

As an outcome of this suggestion the secretary of the league, J. R. Colling wood was induced to request that quarry owners in this vicinity send to his office, No. 207 South Jefferson street, samples of their product that contractors may see what stones are available for this and other uses in the building lines. lines.

Another suggestion was made that the advertising committee begin work at once upon the collection of exhibits of the natural resources of this section

Previous to the adjournment of the meeting H. W. Anderson brought up the matter of good roads as a requisite to the proper development of a com-munity, and moved the entropy the comto the proper development of a community, and moved the appointment of a committee to commence some definite work which shall lead to the adoption of some good roads bill by the next legislature. TARIFF BILL PASSED BY SENATE.

Five Votes to Spare on Its Final Passage Last Night.

Hill the Only Democrat Who Voted Against It-The Income Tax Goes Through With the Rest and the Amendment Exempting the Salaries of the President and United States Judges Finally Rejected-Many Amendments Accepted, but More Thrown Out.

WASHINGTON, July 3 .- The Senate met at 10 a. m. in continuation of yesterday's executive session by virtue of the recess taken last night. That obviated all the delays incident to the formalities of a regular opening of a new day.

The tariff bill was taken up at once and action on the amendments of the committee of the whole occupied the whole of to-day's session. First came the motion made by Mills Monday evening to place burlaps and grain bags made therefrom on the free list. It was carried by a vote of 28 to 17.

Next came the famous "collars and cuffs" amendment, fixing the duty on those articles at 30 cents per dozen and 30 per cent ad valorem and on shirts at 30 per cent ad valorem and on shirts at 50 per cent. equivalent, according to a statement made by Chandler, to an ad valorem rate of from 80 to 125 per cent. That amendment was agreed to after a couple of satirical speeches directed against the junior Senator from New York (Murphy) by a vote of 43 to 5.

Then the great wool schedule came up for action, Sherman offering an amendment to place wool on the dutiable list for action, Sherman offering an amendment to place wool on the dutiable list at 30 per cent advalorem. The longest discussion of the day took place on this proposition—appeals being made by Republican Senators to Democratic Senators from the wool-producing states to supply even two votes for the amendment, which would be enough, with the populist votes, to carry it.

But these appeals fell on deaf ears. There was not a single desertion from the Democratic ranks on the question

The committee amendment placing bituminous coal on the dutiable list at obtuminous coal on the dutiable list at 40 cents at to and coal slack at 15 cents was agreed to by a vote of 47 to 6. The six were Allen, Hill, Irby, Kyle, Mills and Peffer. All the committee amendments to the leather schedule were agreed to; also all the amendments under the title of "Miscellaneous Manufactures."

The next reserved amendment was paragraph 575, as to paintings on the free list. Allen then moved to strike free list. Allen then moved to strike out the paragraph and to substitute for it the provisions of the existing law as to duty on paintings. It was contended, however, that the motion was not in order, the rule under which the Senate was acting being that all the committee amendments should first be disposed of, after which every line of the bill would be open to amenument. That view was sustained by the chair, and the committee amendments were agreed to.

The committee amendment, which had been originally offered by Hill, exempting the salaries of the President of the United States and of the judges of the United States from the income tax was rejected after a brief struggle by a vote

All the other reserved amendments up to the close of the bill were agreed to without opposition.

An amendment had been agreed to in committee of the whole that barbed wire fencing should be admitted free of duty. This amendment was rejected, and one offered by Allen (Pop., Neb.) to place "wire for fencing" on the free list was also rejected—yeas 32, nays 38; and so wire remains on the dutiable list at rates according to quage.

His three minute speech in favor of his proposition was the only one he has made on the tariff question and after he had concluded Senators gathered around him and promised support, After the vote Ranson interrupted Morgan for vote Ranson interrupted Morgan for the purpose of, as he said, completing his amendment, which he proceeded to do by moving to strike mica from the free list, where it had been placed by the committee. This was agreed to amid much talk, which was only increased when Chandler crossed the aisle and invaded the ranks of his political enemy and grasping Ransom by the hand congratulated him upon his victory for the mica industry of North Carolina and New Hampshire.

Morgan offered an amendment to come in as five additional sections at the end of the bill, aimed at trusts, commissions and conspiracies in restraint of trade and commerce, or to instraint of trade and commerce, or to instraint of trade and commerce, or to increase the market price of imported articles. At 8:45 p. m. a motion was made by Dolph that the Senate should either dispose of the bill quickly or lat it go over till Thursday. He said: 'I hate to see the national day desecrated by the passage of such a bill."

"Nothing could be so painful to me," said Harris sarcastically, "as to give the slightest shadow of pain to the Senator from Oregon. But I think that the bill should be disposed of before the Senate adjourns, and I hope that every Senator will stay here until it is disposed of."

Pettigrew offered an amendment providing for a tariff commission. Rejected: Yeas, 30; nays, 38.

At 10 p. m. there was an immense concourse of spectators in the galleries, most of them ladies, who were waving fans industriously, for the atmosphere of the chamber was hot and sweltering. Senators evinced great impatience at the unnecessary delay occasioned by the offering of amendments which had no show of being adopted, but which occupied time in taking the yeas and nays. There was much excitement as to the final vote and a rumor prevailed that the bill would be beaten.

The chairman of the House committee on ways and means Mr. Wilson, and Representatives McMillin and Springer were interested spectators of the proceedings and eager watchers for the last struggle.

At 10 p m the bill was read the third time; and then Smith (Dem., N. J.) rose and addressed the Senate in a set speech against the "socialistic income tax," as he called it; but said he should vote for the pending bill because he is a Democrat.

A Conference Committee Will Probably Decide to Submit the Trouble With the Pullman Company to Arbitration. United States Troops Ordered Out in Several Places—The Tie-Up Very Effective in and Around Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 3 .- "The strike and boycott inaugurated by the American Railway Union will be settled not later than Saturday

This was the official statement given out by President Debs, of the American Railway Union, this evening.

President Howard, James Hogan and Wm. Burns, of the joint conference committee selected to meet the directors, agreed with Mr. Debs. Other directors were divided in their opinion, but it is generally conceded that the efforts of the municipal authorities, preceded by the mediation of P E Studebaker, will, in all probability, result in a settlement of the boycott against Pullman and the strike on the railroads.

The first meeting of the conference The first meeting of the conference will be held to-morrow. It is not expected that a settlement will be reached at one; owing to the stabborn opposition on each side, but it is the belief of all concerned that with the assistance of outside committees, such as appointed by the city council, some sort of an arrangement can be made whereby the railroads will be released and the original difficulty can be settled by arbitration.

Even the Brewerles Affected.
Chicago, July 3.—Almost every browery in Chicago will stop making beer on account of the big strike. The scarcity of coal has made such action necessary. Yesterday a number of officials of the brewing companies got together and decided that unless their coal was saved for the ice machines they would not only be compelled to stop their machinery, but it would be impossible for them to save the beer in their refrigerators. It was fully decided to stop brewing and use the fuel for nothing but the ice machines. None of the employes will suffer by the move as they will be kept on the pay rolls. It is also said that the supply of the beverage will be soriously affected. There are about fifty large brewertes in Chicago, and it is understood that the men will enjoy vacations for the next few days. They say that if the strike should continue for any considerable time they will have to shut down their brewertes altogether.
